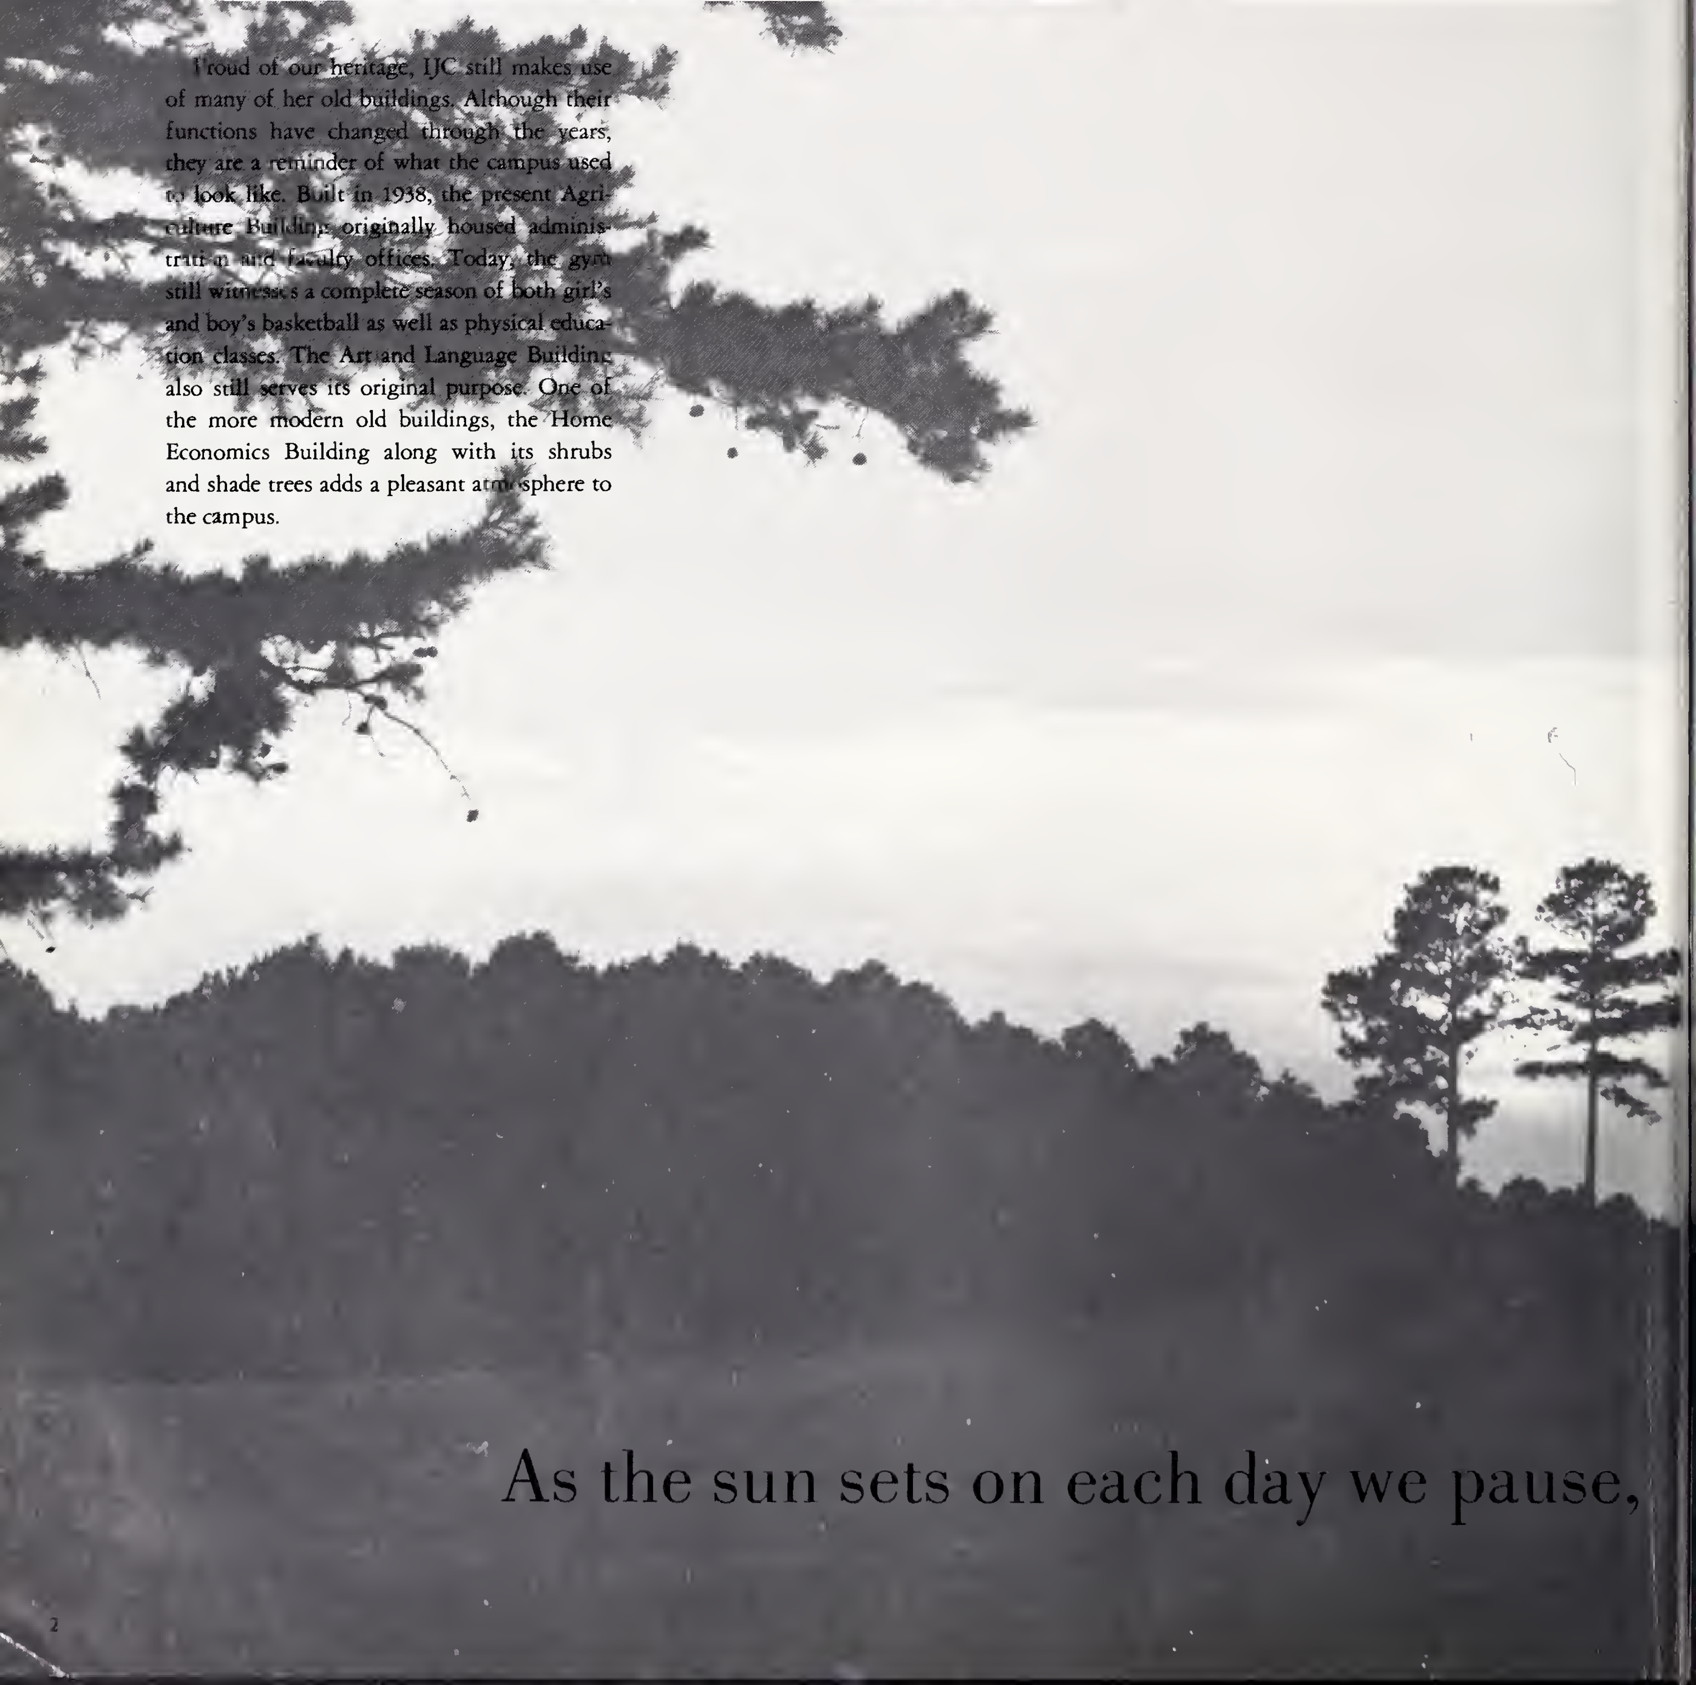
Proud of our heritage, IJC still makes use of many of her old buildings. Although their functions have changed through the years, they are a reminder of what the campus used to look like. Built in 1938, the present Agriculture Building originally housed administration and faculty offices. Today, the gym still witnesses a complete season of both girl's and boy's basketball as well as physical education classes. The Art and Language Building also still serves its original purpose. One of the more modern old buildings, the Home Economics Building along with its shrubs and shade trees adds a pleasant atmosphere to the campus.



As the sun sets on each day we pause,

The Music Building, one of the more modern buildings on campus, has already reached its full capacity. In order to house the rapidly expanding voice and instrumental music, art, and speech and drama departments, IJC is now constructing a Fine Arts Center. It will accommodate students beginning with the '78 spring session. The Administration Building, located at the head of the campus, dominates all activities. Relatively new, Monroe Hall, the present girl's dorm, is already overcrowded. A new girl's dorm and a new boy's dorm have been designed and are expected to be completed by the '77 fall session.

Reluctant Debutante Fall Production

Pam Marion Has Top Role

"The Reluctant Debutante" is a comedy about a mother and her desperate attempt to find a husband for her debutante daughter. The action took place in the sitting room of a large London flat sometime in the 1950's.

Portraying the characters were: Pam Marion as Shelia Broadbent; Kevin Pitts as Jane Broadbent; Tommy Morgan as David Bulloch; Tony McLarty as David Hoylake-Johnston; Sherie Pegues as Mable Crosswaite; Bebe Duke as Mrs. Edgar; John Morgan as Jimmy Broadbent; Kathy Slack as Clarissa Crosswaite.

The play was under the direction of Fran Rish, student director, and Miss Joyce Nicholson, director.

In the spring the Speech and Drama Department presented a puppet show and several one-act plays.

Indianettes Re-Enact '50's

The 1950's were re-enacted by the Indianettes as they danced to "Happy Days" in wide pleated skirts, bulky sweaters and bobby socks. Screams of delight erupted when "The Fonz" made his entrance. Other highlights were dances to "The Hustle" and "Baby Face." Indianettes are (l. to r.) Carol Roberts, Vicki Stewart, Carol Sprayberry, Carol Keith, Debbie Wall, Alice Allen, Sandy Hodges, Janet Warren, and Kim Cason.

ROTC Popular Academic Program

Army ROTC is becoming an increasingly popular program at IJC. Enrollment has grown from 45 last year to 60 this year as more students are deciding to take advantage of the academic and entracurricular activities that ROTC offers.

Capt. Brian Ohlinger said that the program is designed to prepare cadets for advanced study at a senior college and a future as an Army officer.

IJC President Probably Busiest Man On Campus

Probably the busiest man at Itawamba Junior College is W. O. Benjamin — the president. His job is to manage and direct all the affairs of the institution and to give creative leadership to professional employees in carrying out their responsibilities.

He submits statements of policy to the Board of Trustees for their approval and keeps them informed of what is taking place in other colleges as well as IJC.

IJC's chief executive also keeps local and state officials informed about the institution's work, aspirations and monetary needs.

But the president's life is not all work. He said that Mrs. Benjamin helps him enjoy such leisure activities as reading and caring for his many plants.

Sophomore — Past, Present, Future

As I began my freshman year at college, it was such a totally new and long-awaited moment that I found myself more interested in the social values of the school, rather than the academic aspects.

It was like entering a fantasy world full of unfamiliar faces, ideas, and ways of life. But, just like everyone else, I settled down and proceeded to take my studies seriously.

Now, I find in my sophomore year that I have developed a completely changed viewpoint, and things are in a different order of importance. As a sophomore, I am more concerned with my future and the direction my life will soon be taking. This year is like a turning point, and time is running out for many students to decide on careers. Since this will be our life's work, I think it is the single most important decision that we have to make this year.

I look forward to transferring to Ole Miss with anticipation very similar to entering college as a freshman, but I know that I do not have time or freedom to be lax in my work. I am fortunate, though, that I have chosen a field of study. It should be more interesting since I will be enjoying more specialized courses as an accounting major, with high hopes of becoming a successful accountant.

Freshman Bridges Generation Gap

It is a rather startling fact when at the half-century mark of life you become a freshman in college. Suddenly, you find yourself in a world of the young and the carefree. It is as though time has been turned back and you try to remember what it was like when you were a high school graduate. You wonder at what level you can bridge the generation gap to converse with fellow students. All these things keep going through your mind, and when the day of registration arrives you face it with mixed anticipation.

Transportation via a community school bus is an experience within itself. A young man, who is a student at the college, drives the bus with the self-assurance of a veteran driver. As you ride along, a bit of nostalgia of your high school days creeps into your thoughts. Could it really have been that long since you were a student in high school commuting by bus? The students around you seem a bit reluctant to talk. Somehow you feel like a chaperone. Then, as the trip wears on they "warm up" to you and the bus ride turns into discussions of their intended courses and school activities.

You finally arrive at the student center to register for classes. This is a confusing process for you as you have been away from school many years. The mechanics of registration are made clear to you and you choose the proper courses to aid you in pursuing your chosen field.

The week of regular classes begins. You refer to your worn schedule and guard it carefully, for without it you would surely be lost. You report to your first class. Most of your fellow students are fresh out of high school, your instructor is as young as your son, and you are a minority group, as you are the only female in class. Suddenly, you realize you will have to work hard to "keep up" with these young, alert minds. After a few classes they begin to treat you "as one of the boys." You are happy they have accepted you as a fellow student and are so eager to help you and share their knowledge with you.

You learn to fall in step and march with the students toward a goal. The generation gap is bridged as all students have one common goal — an education.

Campus Celebrities Reveal Impressions; Predict Future

"When I grow older and look back on my two years at IJC, I will remember two of the most enjoyable years of my school life. Utmost in my memories, I will remember the teachers for their interest and individual concern for the student in his educational endeavors. I knew the teachers would be there to help me when I didn't quite understand something in class, or when I missed an assignment due to a basketball trip. The devoted men and women I was privileged to have for teachers here at Itawamba Junior College have initiated a desire in my life to find a position that will promote the contentment that comes from helping others."

Janie

"My first impression of IJC was less than anyone could imagine. However, my opinion has changed drastically in the past two years. Had I gone to a senior college, I could never have met so many great people and made so many friends. It is because of these people that my opinion has changed. I must also say that the faculty are some of the best I have ever known. I don't know of many instructors who would have taken as much time to help a student as these people have taken with me. IJC is on the upswing. It has embarked on a building program that will match any college in the state. It is up to those students that follow to make sure these facilities are not abused. We have witnessed the old and look forward to the new, with hopes for an even better IJC."

Cheerleaders Win Super-Star Ribbon

It is the task of the cheerleaders to keep the spirit high at IJC, not only in the area of athletics, but also in other aspects of college life. In addition to cheering at football and basketball games, they serve as hostesses at activities such as the Supervisor's Banquet and the "Welcome Back-to-School" Dance.

The six versatile young women were awarded a Super-Star ribbon at the cheerleader camp they attended during the summer at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. The camp, sponsored by the National Cheerleader Association, is held to polish the skills of cheerleaders in stunts, formations and chants.

Miss Dot Easterwood is cheerleader sponsor.

"Meteorological Mania"

"But, baby, it's cold outside!"

Everyone is aware of the hard winter thus far, but just how hard a winter is it? As winters go, this year's is the coldest in the last 100 years. What's more, nearly the entire U.S. has suffered this same fate.

Miami, Florida reported snowfall and 32 degree temperatures during the third week of January. The Arkansas River froze over and Northern Mississippi endured below zero readings with three to five inches of snowfall. Energy supplies have dwindled as the Tupelo-Fulton area consumption was 42.7% above normal through December '76.

How did it all get started?

Well, a high speed current of air flowing around the globe at an altitude of four to six miles called the "JET STREAM," decided to move south early this year. One would wonder what a strong wind that high up could do to us down here anyway.

The "JET STREAM" is associated with the boundary of cold polar air and the milder mid-latitude air . . . so when it goes south an invasion of cold polar or even Arctic air goes along with it. Since winter arrived nearly a month early we can only hope that spring will take over ahead of time; however, the 30-day outlook for mid-January to mid-February '77 predicts temperatures to be below normal (40 deg. F is normal average for N. Miss.) and precipitation to be above normal (about three inches)

So . . . what's it all mean???

"Baby, it's cold outside!"
